Nebraska-Born Author Arrested On A Spy Charge

... Journalist Has Lived In Russia Since 1921

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Moscow press announced today that Anna Louise Strong, well-known American author and correspondent, has been arrested on charges of spying and will be deported.

Miss Strong, who has been in Russia most of the time since 1921 writing books and articles which reflected a strongly pro-Soviet viewpoint, is one of the seven American correspondents in Moscow. She was listed as representing the Allied Labor News.

Born in Friend, Neb., Nov. 14, 1885, the daughter of a Congregationalist minister, she studied in Germany and Switzerland, attended Bryn Mawr for a year and received her A.B. degree from Oberlin college, when only 19 years old. Her biography in "Twentieth Century Authors" states that in 1908 she was the youngest woman ever to receive the Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago. She was then 22.

ESPIONAGE CHARGED.

The Soviet newspapers disclosed her arrest in the following announcement:

"The well-known intelligence operator, the American woman journalist, A. L. Strong, who got into the U.S.S.R. as a consequence of the carelessness of certain foreign relations officials, yesterday was arrested by state security organs."

Miss Strong is accused of espionage and undermining activity against the Soviet Union. They report that in the next few days she will be sent outside the boundaries of the Soviet union."

6 Correspondents Remain.

The deportation of the 63-year-old writer leaves the following American correspondents in Moscow: Eddy Gilmore and Thomas P. Whitney for the Associated Press; Henry Shapiro for the United Press; Joseph Newman, New York Herald-Tribune; Edmund Stevens, Christian Science Monitor; and Andrew Steiger, Overseas News Agency.

Soybean futures also tumbled but not until prices opened strong after yesterday's 10-cent limit upturn.

The setback was attributed to technical conditions following the recovery from last week's drop and reports that price-support complications may develop in the event of bumper crops this year.

At the close wheat was 2 to 4½ cents lower, corn 3 to 1½ cents off, oats 1 to 2 cents down, rye 3½ to 4½ cents off and soybeans 1½ to 3½ cents down.

Miss Strong's Father Well Liked As Friend Minister

... Spent Two Years In Nebraska Pastorate

(Special to The Star). FRIEND, Neb.—An early day resident of this community, Mrs. M. D. Warner, Tuesday recalled that Anna Louise Strong, American author who has been arrested in Moscow on charges of spying, lived in Friend for only the first two years of her life.

Miss Strong was born here Nov. 14, 1885, just two months after her father began his pastorate at the Friend Congregational church.

"Rev. (Sydney) Strong was very well liked here," Mrs. Warner commented. Mrs. Strong took an active part in church organizations and was a Sunday school teacher.

Prominent Chicago Pastor.

The Strong's remained in Friend until May, 1887. Later Rev. Strong became a prominent minister in Chicago and in Washington state. He made his last visit to Friend in 1902 at the time of the re dedication services for the Congregational church.

Anna Louise was the couple's only child, Mrs. Warner said. She has not been back to Friend since leaving here in 1887.

In reminiscing, Mrs. Warner added that Rev. Strong's salary for his first year in Friend was $800.

Journeyed to Europe.

Some years later the Strong's went to Europe. While returning to this country, Mrs. Strong became ill and died a short time later.

Miss Strong studied in Germany in 1902. The next year she attended Bryn Mawr and in 1905 she received her A.B. degree from Oberlin. She organized "Know Your City" instituted in Seattle, Portland and Walla Walla in 1909 and 1910. She embarked on her journalistic career in Moscow in 1921 when she became a correspondent for the American Friends Relief Mission.

Board For Rail Issue Is Named

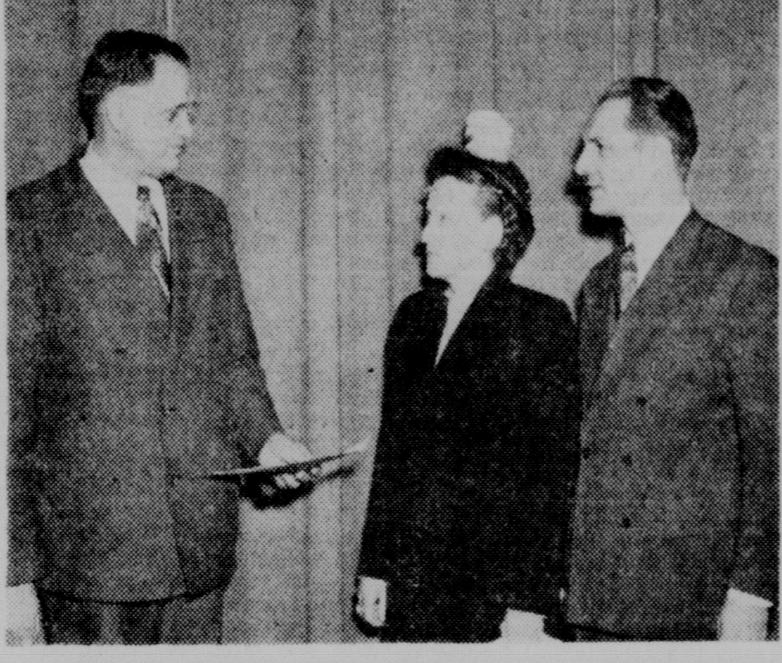

Truman's Group To Study 'Extra Fireman's Demand'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman today created an emergency board to investigate a dispute between the railroads and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Involved is a demand by the union for additional firemen on diesel locomotives. The diesels can be hooked together and operated integrally. The firemen want an extra man to each four units or less.

The same board is now investigating a dispute between the roads, represented by the eastern, western, and southeastern carriers conference committees, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers involving a demand for an additional engineer on multi-unit diesels.

Nebraska Builder Award Made Posthumously To Delmar Anderson, Lexington

The Nebraska Builder award, highest non-academic honor of the University of Nebraska, Tuesday was conferred posthumously upon Delmar Anderson of Dawson county.

The award was presented by Chancellor R. G. Gustavson to Mr. Anderson's son-in-law, State Senator Norris F. Schroeder of Hoskins, at a Charter Day convocation held to commemorate the 80th anniversary of the university's founding.

Normally the award is made to living persons. His nomination by a committee of deans, and subsequent approval by the faculty senate and the board of regents, came shortly before the auto accident which led to his death Feb. 5, and the rule was waived.

For a third of a century Mr. Anderson was an outstanding agricultural, business, community and state leader. A native of Nebraska, Mr. Anderson was born and raised on a farm. For the past 39 years he had been highly successful farmer and livestock feeder. At the time of his death he owned and operated 3,200 acres of land in Dawson and Gosper counties. His farm home was near Lexington.

Thaws Bring Problems To Nebraska

Heavy Runoffs Will Mean Flood Threats

Rising temperatures and clear skies brought both relief and new worries to Nebraskans Tuesday.

With a record amount of snow on the ground, flood threats were present in many areas as the mercury pushed toward the high 30s causing streams of water to run from the huge snow piles.

The thaw is expected to extend through the next three or four days, according to the weather bureau. The five-day forecast is for temperatures to average near normal and that means a maximum of 46 in west and 40 in and the rule was waived.

Scientists Aim Is To Aid Society

Not Destroy It, Dr. Stakman Says

Scientists, by discovering atomic energy, have not tempted civilization to commit suicide, Dr. E. C. Stakman, president of the American Association for the advancement of science, declared here Tuesday.

Addressing a charter day convocation at the coliseum in commemoration of the 80th anniversary of the founding of the University of Nebraska, Dr. Stakman stated:

"Science cannot be entirely blamed for creating tools which may be speeding mankind's rush toward self-destruction."

The University of Minnesota plant pathologist labeled as "unfounded and unfair" charges that science is dehumanizing rather than humanizing and that it has put new tools into the hands of society without at the same time guaranteeing how these tools shall be used.

Increases Comforts.

"Science is often accused of having created many of the aches and pains in our modern civilization," Dr. Stakman, the 1949 head of the A.A.A.S., a society of 40,000 American scientists, reported. This he also denied, declaring:

"In fact, the reverse is true as most scientists are motivated by a desire to emancipate man from ignorance, prejudice and superstition, or to render social service by discovering facts and principles which are used in safeguarding the health of people, in helping man to produce more food and clothing materials with less effort, in improving the technology of manufacturing processes and in increasing the comforts of living."

"Comfort is not all of civilization but only part of it. If the measure of civilization is the degree of intellectual enlightenment and spiritual refinement at a given time, science has at least contributed tremendously to intellectual enlightenment. Moreover, it has contributed to spiritual refinement on the part of those who

Sen. William Green, chairman of the senate finance committee, last week came out against any tax boost before next January. Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said he feels the same way.

Assuming that senate finance committee republicans will oppose tax increases, George and Byrd can block any tax bill.

Many democrats have taken the position that no tax legislation should be written until it is clear how much congress is going to spend.

Byrd's remarks came after a one-hour conference the president called with his aids and congressional leaders to go over the entire social security program.

Operation Snowbound Criticized

By Sen. Morse: Gov. Peterson Upholds Army

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senators Morse (R-Ore) said today the army's operations in snow disaster areas are causing so much dissatisfaction that it appears that an investigation of its efficiency or lack of it would be in order.

Morse told a reporter he considered it a mistake to let the army handle domestic civilian problems unless it is subordinated to "the control and direction of a civilian board."

"I am satisfied that the congress should make clear to the administration that the army should be used purely as a service agency and not be given administration powers over domestic problems," Morse said.

'Old Army Game.'

"The army runaround is an old army game and will always be played unless army jurisdiction is strictly curtailed by civilian control."

The senator said he had information to show that in many cases "army red tape has thrown up an additional barrier to bringing quick relief to the snow disaster areas."

As an example he cited the case of a machine, manufactured in Oregon, called "snow cat" which he said is recognized by experts as being suitable for work in snow-bound areas.

"Because these machines have never been tested by the army for army work Gen. Lewis S. Pick, in charge of the snow disaster work, has declined to use them," Morse said.

Any civilian board would have had the common sense and horse sense enough to rush these machines to the sufferers in the disaster areas and let their performance determine their value.

"I am informed that the army's conflicting orders and frequent

"A Nebraska Company Serving the People"

TUCKER TO BE PROBED

... By Federal Grand Jury

CHICAGO—(AP)—U. S. Attorney Otto Kerner, Jr., today announced a federal grand jury would begin an investigation of the Tucker Corporation starting Monday.

The Tucker Corporation was organized to manufacture a rear-engine automobile embracing advanced styling and numerous engineering and safety innovations. So far only 38 cars have been produced, lacking many of the features announced in advance.

The company is shut down, except for a skeleton maintenance staff, while a mass of legal actions against its president, Preston Tucker, other officers and the company are pending in the Federal courts here. Tucker, meanwhile, has been hunting new capital.

Kerner said three subpoenas for witnesses had been issued so far for the grand jury investigation and more would be issued later this week.

Fulfilled Obligation.

"It may be true that the ethical development of society has not kept pace with the advances in science and technology. Intellectual enlightenment and spiritual refinement have not always kept pace with each other in the evolution of human societies. They may be out of step now, but scientists can scarcely be blamed for it."

Returning to atomic energy, he stated:

"The development of the atomic bomb was stimulated by the desire for more effective weapons in the last war; scientists, like other patriotic citizens, did what they could to fulfill the obligation placed on them by society."

"Science has gone far to emancipate man from ignorance, superstition, and the tyranny of his environment. It has not yet, however, succeeded in emancipating man from the tyranny of his baser passions, such as greed, hatred, and injustice. Many facts that are basic to present national and world unrest and discontent are unpleasant, but they must be faced if sensible solutions are to be attained."

"The spirit of science required facing these facts and attempting to formulate solutions as sincerely and sensibly as possible. Facts must be substituted for fancies, education for propaganda, and justice for injustice. This is easily said, but the attainment of the objectives is more difficult and requires that the social sciences be sublimated by a better concept of ethics."

Placed on Probation. — A 17-year-old high school senior was placed on probation for two years after pleading guilty in District court to a burglary charge. The youth admitted taking property valued at $65 from Cornhusker Billards, 216 South Eleventh, the night of Nov. 26. According to the police report, he hid in the establishment while it was being closed for the night.

Sen. William Metzger in a passionate appeal asked that Sen. Williams give him the amendments and he would introduce them. He then attacked the propriety of the government committee conducting the hearings because five of its members names were signed to the repeal measure.

Sen. Arthur Carmody, chairman of the committee, suggested that Sen. Metzger file written charges if he was of the opinion the bill was given an unfair hearing. He called attention to the fact that all of the names, except the three original introducers, were added by unanimous consent of the legislature.

No "Pinks" Favored Bill.

"Did you object when this unanimous object was requested?" Sen. Carmody asked Sen. Metzger.

The Cedar Creek senator admitted that he did not, but said he later expressed his opposition to such procedure.

"Every person appearing in opposition to this bill was a wheel of some kind or other in a political organization," Sen. Carmody said. He said he kept a list of every witness and how long they spoke.

"There were no 'pinks' there favoring the bill, nor any common citizens opposing it," he continued. "I am not going to be ruled by any politician. Are they supermen? Are you going to let them make your decisions on candidates for you?"

More Voted In 1940.

"There recently was a little man without the blessing of his party. Finally, they reluctantly endorsed him, but said he did not have a chance. They did little to help him. He took his story to the other little people of the nation. Today with their votes, he is president of the United States."

Terminating the present primary the "politicians election," Carmody said that proof of failure of the present system is shown by comparison of the 1940 and 1948 vote. He said 64,000 more voted in 1940 without benefit of having Nebraska heralded nationally as the testing ground for presidential aspirants.

Opposition Isolated.

Sen. W. Halsey Bohlike, Hastings, said, "Opposition to this bill seems to come from isolated spots. Apparently the boys in the smoke filled rooms have done them a favor. I don't think we should go slow on anything that puts the government in the hands of the people."

He was referring to an appeal from Sen. Lee urging delay in final action and that because the bill was of statewide importance the legislature should act slowly.

Sen. John Adams, Omaha, without heat or mentioning names chided Sen. Metzger, who is chairman of the rules committee, on lack of decorum in the legislature inspired by Metzger's attack on the government committee.

Two Bills Advanced.

"Some of us lack forensic experience in these halls," said the Omaha lawyer and minister. "But, I inquire, is it good decorum to bring up subjects to confuse legislators such as questions about signs of bills serving on committees particularly, when those causing confusion were parties to permitting the members to sign the bills?"

Sen. Lee said some of the state's best citizens, interested in good government, were in the "smoke filled room" where the amendments were drawn. He objected to condemning them. He contended that it was not good legislative procedure to first test whether the bill would pass and if it failed to introduce amendments.

Sen. Williams contended that it was good legislation if 22 members favored repeal of the law. If they express opposition, then we should seek changes, he said.

The legislature advanced LB 342 from general file. It adds improvements to land that assessors may add to tax lists where they are overlooked.

Also advanced was a State Bar association bill, LB 308, exempting from inheritance tax gifts to non-profit and governmental organizations.

STRONG DEPORTATION

Robert Magidoff was ordered to leave Russia in April, 1948, when Izvestia published a letter from his secretary, Cecilia Nelson of Michigan, accusing him of spying.

The letter said Magidoff, correspondent for NBC, Exchange Telegraph and McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., had received instructions from McGraw-Hill to collect information on underground construction. McGraw-Hill explained that the charges were based on "routine news assignments" sent to Magidoff.

Author of Many Books.

Magidoff said he believed his expulsion was for internal propaganda purposes.

Miss Strong has been in Russia most of the time in the last 28 years, and is known as the author of a score of books and articles which gave her the reputation of being strongly leftist and pro-Russian. She also has traveled widely in China and central Europe.

Among the many books are "I Change Worlds; the Remaking of an American" (1935). The Nation described the book as "the strange Worked for Wallace.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—State department officials are skeptical of the actual reasons behind the ouster of Dr. Anna Louise Strong, American author and publisher, from the Soviet Union on charges of espionage.

Sen. William Metzger in a passionate appeal asked that Sen. Williams give him the amendments and he would introduce them. He then attacked the propriety of the government committee conducting the hearings because five of its members names were signed to the repeal measure.

Sen. Arthur Carmody, chairman of the committee, suggested that Sen. Metzger file written charges if he was of the opinion the bill was given an unfair hearing. He called attention to the fact that all of the names, except the three original introducers, were added by unanimous consent of the legislature.

Sen. Carmody asked Sen. Metzger.

However, there seems to be little doubt in their minds that the 63-year-old student of communism philosophy would or could be kept out of the country.

At the same time immigration officials said Dr. Strong might face difficulties if she wishes to come home.

The author has evidently well established her citizenship, state department sources said, since she was re-issued a passport only late last year.

Frequently traveling between Russia and the United States, her last visit was to work for Henry A. Wallace in his progressive party campaign for the presidency.

The immigration spokesman pointed out that "for many years this woman has been active on the Russian side" and that unusual care therefore will be exercised in dealing with the case.

Extent Of Storm In Ranch Area 'Defies Description'

... Says G. I. Man After Tour In 'Snowmobile'

GRAND ISLAND, Neb.—(AP)—The winter disaster in the ranch country "defies description," Ed Vieregg reported after a tour of ranches in a "snowmobile," a half-track vehicle with skis mounted at the front wheels.

"Not only is the extent of the storm almost indescribable, but there seems to be no pattern, no rhyme or reason for the way in which it struck," he said.

In one spot, he said, it is possible to see cattle grazing on tufts of grass sticking up through the snow. A little farther on, the same kind of terrain may be covered completely with snow, making hilly country appear level.

What Goes?

No one living out here in the wide open spaces where wheat is wheat, and corn is king will cuss out the action of the nation's primary grain markets Monday.

Prices were on the up and up, soybeans grabbing off for themselves the full allowable advance, and the bread grains and corn decidedly stronger.

The natural query is has there been an element of speculation in recent weeks affecting the downward trend of farm commodities? That is what Secretary Brannan had in mind last week when he asked for an inquiry into speculation on grains. But possibly a more potent factor is a disposition to harvest larger crops in other parts of the world long before the seed is in the ground. We anticipate Europe will come nearer to feeding itself in 1949 than in any of the immediate preceding years, yet we do not know. We do know the world requires a lot of food, and we will continue at least for another year to furnish a considerable portion of it.

Out here where wheat and corn are gold we are glad to see even a day's spirited advance in farm commodity prices. They were getting lower than they should be in relation to industrial products at present levels.

Austin's Housing Shortage

The city of Kearney, confronted with a heavy loss in the inactivation of its splendid airfield, sent a committee of its businessmen to inquire into the housing situation in Austin, Texas. The army plan is to transfer the activities and personnel of the Kearney base to a neighboring Austin field. There, after the people of Kearney had gone to a great deal of trouble and expense to provide housing for officers and men with the understanding that the base was a permanent installation, they discovered that the housing shortage at the flourishing Texas city was acute. Notwithstanding the 27th Fighter Wing (the Kearney group) goes from a region where adequate housing has been provided without cost to Uncle Sam through the initiative of a public-spirited community to Bergstrom air base, and among the 2,000 officers and men, numbers of them will be permanent. And at the same time word went to Washington that the move was made in the interest of greater efficiency in operation and better housing facilities. Well Austin has some growing pains—it has jumped from 87,000 people in 1940 to an estimated 125,000. That in-

HAVE PITY UPON MERE WORDS!

Starting with the gathering of the Republican National committee in Omaha, in late January, and mounting to a flood-tide of political oratory inspired by Lincoln's birthday last weekend, the American people have been taking a frightful shellacking from one of the most formidable barrages of words laid down in recent years. Who is a republican conservative? Who is a republican liberal? And what are both? "God Hates a Coward," it was said from on high in Omaha. Who is a coward in God's eyes? And, does it come that those who are passing out the names, cowards, or brave men, conservatives and liberals, got word from God exactly how He actually has labeled His people here on earth.

Too many people are using others, in this instance calling upon God himself, to strengthen their logic, to flavor their arguments in support of their own convictions. Too many people are talking about today's conservatives in the image of yesterday's reactionaries; too many people are describing today's liberals in the definition of yesterday's rebels. Too many people are tossing words around, recklessly, carelessly, without any regard to the fact that words themselves may silently aspire to some dignity and meaning.

One observer to cap it off in answering Mr. Newbranch's editorial said Abe Lincoln was a conservative. That obviously, honestly is his opinion of Abe Lincoln. Were Mr. Lincoln alive today, patient, noble, charitable, he might be puzzled if they were talking about him. If in his day Lincoln actually was a conservative, we haven't even the slightest idea what those, devoted to the old order, against whom Lincoln battled, should be called. And if the curious will take the trouble to read Abe Lincoln's attack upon the Supreme court of the United States because of its Dred Scott decision, then there will be a disposition to hesitate to call Lincoln a conservative. Surely the public has a right to expect those who use words for a livelihood, or in the case of the politician for political preference, to exercise a little more discrimination in their treatment of words. After all words are so defenseless. They find themselves tossed around, thrown about, kicked, pummeled, dragged out by the hair, and they can't even raise a cry in their own defense. They are entitled to a little pity. Surely they have some rights inherently, rights beyond invasion, and in this feverish season of name-calling, they do protest justly against the indignities heaped upon their defenseless heads.

If God sees a farmer aspiring to a more equitable share of the national income, reflected by the price of farm commodities, and if God says that farmer is a coward because of that, then is He a just god? If God sees an organized laborer, using every legitimate lawful means at his command to get a little bit more in the paycheck, and God brands the laborer a coward, politically, then is that a just god? If God looks down upon all of us, and in all the imperfection of human flesh, cluttered minds, God sees us toiling, sweating, praying, hoping to better our position here on earth, then does God say we are cowards, and He hates us because we are cowards? And looking again, if God sees politicians, puzzled, confused, uncertain, and indecisive in what they should say or do, trying to chart a sensible course while the democrats were being obedient democrats, however, the republicans picked up the ball. They introduced a resoluvolve the matter of housing. And while the army probably knows what it is doing, the situation does project a phase of brass hatsism that does plague the blood pressure.

Note: Sunday Sec. of Air Symington at Kearney said a final "no" to Kearney's hopes for reactivation of the base.

Scandinavia's Hopes

We are quite sure it is an honest judgment Sweden expresses that Finland will be occupied by Russia in the event Norway becomes a member of the North Atlantic alliance.

In this country at this time there is a great need of understanding of the delicate, difficult position occupied by these Scandinavian peoples. They are in between east and west, it is true; but in spirit and in sympathies they are essentially of the west. Now the Russians may be bluffing, but if bluffing instead of turning upon Sweden the American people will recognize that the role of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland is one of torment and thorns.

The entire Scandinavian peninsula is in the shadow of the hulking, Great Bear, and the individual countries which comprise it are small on any basis of peoples and armaments. Sweden itself has the best-trained, best-equipped, and most numerically impressive army of any among the Scandinavian peoples. That army has a strength of 700,000 men, well-trained, possessing modern weapons, capable of giving a good account of themselves. The Swedish desire for peace is traditional—in some miraculous fashion the Swedish people managed to survive two global wars with a semblance of neutrality—and on the basis of experience that is the present design. The least appealing of the reflections upon Swedish neutrality grows out of the fact that Sweden prospered during those wars, but more careful examination will end in the conclusion it could not have been otherwise.

For the time being the important thing for us here in America is to try to understand the Scandinavian peoples in our desire that they be more aggressively, or what appears to be more aggressively, on our side.

Wrong Goat

"What good are the republican wranglers doing themselves or their party in repeatedly trying to drive their defeated presidential nominees into public disgrace?", the temperate, restrained Roscoe Drummond asks in The Christian Science Monitor. Then he adds, "Much more of this kind of scapegoat pettiness cannot fail to cast doubts of the good faith of the party in its choice of nominees if it is going to sell every one of them down the river after defeat. The republican 80th congress was defeated more decisively than was Mr. Dewey, and the republican policy-makers and post-mortem strategists cannot afford to overlook that fact." They cannot but they did. The loudest voices at the Omaha gatherings were those of Senator Wherry and Senator Cappaert. One of them at least had a great deal to do with writing the record of the discredited congress.

No Compromise

Jack Bell lets Senator Wherry's fellow Nebraskans in on a secret. He says the republican floor leader will take a filing at the political Chautauqua circuit. Of wider interest, perhaps, Mr. Bell, in Washington, declares that republican members in congress are developing a fighting mood, fitting in closely with Mr. Wherry's ideas of a genuine old-fashioned political knockdown and dragout.

"I am going to tell all the republicans that are willing to listen to me that there can't be any compromise with the democrats," he quotes the Nebraskan as saying. "We've got to come out fighting for what we think is right. For us to simply become a me-too party will leave the people no choice . . ." It is not indicated whether that applies to foreign as well as domestic policies. If it does, then it means the end of bipartisan support of American foreign policy, which Mr. Wherry has examined critically at times.

Mr. Newbranch started it, and he had a point, a point which to him had some merit; and, anyone, differing, no matter how much he may with him, should not deny him full credit for a moving, glistening piece of work. We suggest there were conservatives in 1780, in 1860, in 1896, in 1920, and in 1949, and while they had much in common, they had much in dissimilarity. Likewise the insurgent, the rebel, the liberal. A tear for all of them—conservative, liberal—a bucket of tears for them. They knew not peace in life in the savage combat of politics; and, in death peace is not for them while controversy continues over what and what not they may have represented.

PEOPLE TOO GRUMPY

Fairbury, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Much is written about world conditions and what it needs to create a better understanding among mankind. To have a better understanding something should be said and written about the world of gourmets, for the world over people are too grumpy. To have better world conditions we need more cheerfulness to put people in a better frame of mind, for a world of gourmets cannot come to an understanding. To start work in an ill humor is useless, for careful planning and same judgment cannot be accomplished under such a strain or condition. If the world of gourmets can be transformed into a world of smiles then the way can be paved for a better understanding. C. L.

BRYAN'S SPADE WORK.

Lincoln, Neb. To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Commentator George E. Sokolsky tells us that up to 1932 the republicans enjoyed an advantage over the democrats largely because of the Civil war, extending railroads westward to the coast and development of farmlands in the west, coupled with intensification of industry. He also insists that during this period of republican pre-eminence the democrats failed to develop a political philosophy. That it was W. J. Bryan who brought into the democrat party a philosophy of politics and economics—and at that time he was regarded within his party as a radical. He also tells us that while Bryan was defeated for president three times, practically all of his ideas have now gained general acceptance.

The republican senators who got behind the resolution are Bridges of New Hampshire, Brewster and Smith of Maine, Butler and Wherry of Nebraska, Baldwin of Connecticut, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Malone of Nevada, Langer of North Dakota, and Morse of Oregon.

They intend to make a major attack on the administration, charging the state department with delivering fine phrases before the United Nations while playing footsie with the Dutch aggressors under the UN table. And it looks as if they were right.

Thousands lined up to see them . . . Massachusetts will conduct an essay contest in high school on French-American friendship, giving non-historic gifts as prizes to winners . . . Ohio will mount its 40-and-8 boxcar on wheels and tour it throughout the state . . . The mayor of Parkersburg, W. (The French people want everyone in the state to see the boxcar and the gifts, if possible) . . . Boston is placing the gifts on display in department-store windows prior to distribution . . . Chicago's museum of science and industry will display the 40-and-8 boxcar for a month, together with the French gifts, after which they will be taken around the state . . . Some states have offered high schools a chance to display gifts, provided manual-training classes build proper glass cases for display.

Employment Bill Tabled By Senators

State Fair Practices Measure Indefinitely Postponed After Hearing

By ARCH DONOVAN.

After a short executive session following a two and a half hour hearing Monday, the labor committee of the legislature by 6 to 3 vote indefinitely postponed LB 117, the fair employment practices bill introduced by Sen. John Adams of Omaha.

Committee members frankly said the principles of the bill were admirably presented. However, they found several reasons to justify their action.

Chairman Karl Vogel, on behalf of the committee, gave the following reasons which he said would be included in the committee report to the legislature:

1. It permits the employee to choose his employer, but does not extend to employers the same right to choose their employees.

2. It makes the state labor commissioner the investigator, prosecutor and judge of suspected violations.

3. You cannot put the full responsibility of an age old problem on one class of society.

4. It is a problem that cannot be solved by legislation but requires education and continued progress such as has been made by those seeking the legislation.

5. An employer might discriminate against the more qualified applicant for a job because of fear of prosecution by the other prospective employee who was a member of a minority group.

But three witnesses appeared in opposition to the bill. They appeared as representatives of the Associated Industries Small Businessmen's association and the railroad brotherhoods.

Conflict Seen.

S. A. Seline read a prepared statement from Don Devries, secretary of the Associated Industries, who was ill.

"This type of legislation was not conceived by the high-minded people who are here today supporting it," the statement said. "This bill came originally from that group of professional troublemakers, who following the familiar pattern of agitation among minority groups, can set the stage for conflict where there was none before and with the shrill publicity of a witch hunt build up grievances and ill-will."

"I rise to a point of personal privilege," shouted Robert T. Malone of Lincoln, springing to his feet. "They can't call me a professional troublemaker."

Invasion Of Rights Charged.

Chairman Vogel calmed the director of the state unemployment compensation division and an official of the Lincoln Urban League and Seline continued:

"The bill should be rejected as an unreasonable invasion of basic rights. If the normal right of selection of employees is taken away, and employment practices are to be determined by a state agency, the state becomes the ultimate source of employment and 'independent enterprise' continues only by suffrage."

The statement termed the bill one setting up practices "arbitrary and unfair in procedure, costly impediment to business and one that would intensify group differences and divide the people of the state."

Charles Peters, who said he represented 700 employers in the small business group, said the bill denied the employer the right to run his business and please his customers.

Tells Brotherhood Objections.

Fred Chappelle, speaking for the railroad brotherhoods, said that while they did not oppose the whole bill they did object to two sections. He objected to a ban on advertising for particular types of workers for services in the home and inclusions of unions in the restrictions.

He termed the railroad unions as "fraternal organizations with the right to select their membership."

Ted Sorensen of Lincoln, who served the rebuttal spot for proponents of the bill, summed up the carefully presented arguments in behalf of the proposal. He insisted the bill would be a boon to employers who oppose discrimination but "can't operate as they choose because of fear of retaliation by other employees and customers."

Oregon Legislation.

He answered the "professional troublemakers" charge by pointing out that the principle was recommended to states by a commission including Charles Wilson of General Motors, Charles Luckman of Lever Brothers and Attorney Francis P. Matthews of Omaha. He said similar legislation had been passed in Oregon and it was indicated would be in Illinois.

"If we are sincere in our 'right to work' amendment to the constitution, we must carry it on to the field of non-discrimination," he continued. He said the Lincoln Council of Church Women was prepared to submit petitions from consumers favoring the bill.

Prof. Victor E. Palmer of the University of Nebraska, who described himself as a "Christian and research man," told of results of a survey made in Lincoln in 1947 which he said showed discrimination against minority groups.

Unions Support Measures.

He said the survey showed that training of these workers, many of whom were high school and college graduates, was not used and that they were working in low paid occupations.

Allen Axelrod of the university law faculty told of an examination of the legal aspects of the bill.

that he had made citing court decisions and other laws of the state bearing on the subject.

Gordon Preble, representing the A. F. of L., read resolutions passed at their national convention favoring non-discrimination in industrial employment. Frank Cronin, regional director, and Mrs. Ethel Marode, chairman of the anti-discrimination committee of the C.I.O., presented support of their union for the measure.

Leo Bohannon, secretary of the Omaha Urban League, told the effect of discrimination there which he said permitted only 6,200 Negroes to be employed while the population of the group indicated 8,800 should be at work. We have educational and political democracy in Nebraska but not industrial, he said.

Free Employers From Bigots.

Sen. Vogel called his attention to the fact that in his business there was no discrimination, but he was unable to hire workers. Robert Malone urged passage of the bill on the grounds that it would free employers from bigots who threaten him with loss of patronage. He said the eyes of the world are on this country to see if it practices what it preaches.

Other speakers included Harold Prichard, former senator from Falls City; John P. White, who read a statement from the Veterans of Foreign Wars adjutant; C. C. Calloway, editor of the Omaha Guide, and Rev. S. H. Lewis, who spoke for the Negro Ministerial Association of Omaha.

Colored Oleo Will Be Legal In Michigan

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—After a ban of 48 years, the sale of colored oleomargarine is going to be legal again in Michigan.

The validation will be the first initiated act from the people in Michigan's 112 years of statehood.

By a 21-7 vote, the state senate last night approved repeal of the old law, acting on an initiatory petition whose sponsors claimed 190,000 signers.

Legal experts say the signature of Gov. G. Mennen Williams is not required on an initiatory act.

Parents, Dentists Advised On Caring For Children's Teeth

The president of the American Society for Dentistry for Children had a few words of advice for both parents and dentists Monday night. The advice may mean better teeth for children and less sleepless nights for parents.

Speaking before the Lincoln District Dental Society at the Cornhusker hotel, Dr. Alfred E. Seyler, Detroit, declared:

"When you are going to hurt a child, tell him so. Then commend him on his ability to bear the pain."

And when mother takes little Johnny to the dentist, the mother should stay in the waiting room and let the dentist handle Johnny, was another bit of advice from Dr. Seyler. Besides being president of the society, Dr. Seyler is director of the children's clinic, University of Detroit school of dentistry.

Sodium Fluoride Treatments.

"The new treatments of sodium fluoride that the national association advocates are certainly cheap in comparison to the money and trouble they save," he declared.

But he added that "sodium fluoride is not 100 per cent effective; children may still have cavities after such treatments." The doctor estimated the treatments to be about 40 per cent effective. Dr. Seyler appeared in Lincoln in observance of National Children's Dental Health day.

Mayor Clarence Miles also recognized the day and declared Feb 14 to be Children's Dental Health day in Lincoln.

A special observance in memory of Dr. F. W. Webster was given by Dr. W. Clyde Davis, Dr. Glenn R. Johnston, president of the Lincoln District Dental Society presided during the evening.

The Fashion Academy of New York has been noted for the past 20 years for its annual selection of "America's best dressed women." The '49 Ford was chosen to receive the Fashion Academy Gold Medal after 1949 automobile models of all makes and in all price classes had been carefully studied from the standpoint of excellence in design, simplicity and feminine style appeal. This recognition of Ford leadership in the modern trend of automobile design stands as a unique tribute to the work of Ford's Styling Department and of Design Consultant George Walker of Detroit.

Request Of MacArthur Is Rejected

. . . He Asked More Troops

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The army has turned down a request by Gen. Douglas MacArthur for more troops.

Secretary of the Army Royal said today the supreme allied commander in Japan had been told it would be "impractical" to send him any more.

Royall made the statement to reporters on returning from an inspection trip to Japan where he conferred with MacArthur.

At the time of Royall's visit there, dispatches from Tokyo said MacArthur had submitted a secret report on the American military situation in Japan in view of communist victories in China. These dispatches said MacArthur was believed to have asked for more troops and airplanes.

Request Renewed.

Royall was asked about the reports. He replied that MacArthur previously had expressed hope he could have more troops and brought up the request again.

"He was told it would be impractical to put more troops over there," Royall said.

Royall then was asked whether MacArthur had mentioned returning to the United States.

"There was no discussion at all about his return," Royall said. "He didn't say anything and I didn't."

Camp Fire Group Hears Hugo Srb

The democratic process of the unicameral was explained by legislative clerk Hugo Srb to members of the Camp Fire Guardian association Monday night at the Y.W.C.A.

Srb's discussion is in accordance with the association's theme for the year—"Make Mine Democracy."

A short lesson in folk dancing was given by Mrs. Harold Pierce. The lesson is in preparation for folk dancing festival to be held at the University of Nebraska coliseum in April.

Koyen Turns Down Mayor Candidacy

FREMONT, Neb.—(AP)—Mayor Herbert N. Koyen has rejected a move to draft him as candidate for a second term as mayor.

He said handling his work at the Fremont State company and serving as mayor at the same time is too much of a job.

Koyen has served six years as a councilman and two years as mayor.

At a pre-caucus session, republicans unanimously endorsed him as candidate for re-election April 5.

Eisenhower's Book Readied For Television

... In 26 Installments

NEW YORK — (INS) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's book "Crusade In Europe" has been made into a motion picture for television.

The picture has been divided into a series of 26 films. The first two parts were previewed yesterday by the American Broadcast Co., and 20th Century Fox Film Corp.

The films are scheduled to be shown on the ABC television network beginning late next month. Each installment runs 20 minutes. The first two covered the war from the time of the Munich agreement up to the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Most of the scenes are from official government films. Others came from the British war office, captured enemy films, wartime newsreels and news pictures shot in Europe and the United States.

Spyros P. Skuras, president of 20th Century Fox, termed the film "The first important subject produced exclusively for television."

Estate Taxes Paid

Estate tax amounting to $1,839 has been paid to the state treasurer from the estate of Clarence E. Scriven, Mitchell, the state tax commissioner's office said Monday.

Gross value of the Scriven estate amounted to $293,272. County inheritance tax was $992.

A total of $634 in estate tax and interest was also paid the state from the estate of Alvin E. Johnson, Omaha. Gross value of the estate was $331,517. County inheritance tax totaled $507.

Nemaha County 4-H Fair Plans Readied

AUBURN, Neb. — (AP) — The annual Nemaha county 4-H festival will be held this year on Aug. 24-26.

Dates were selected at a special meeting of the executive committee of the 4-H club in which representatives of the Nemaha County Fair association also joined.

The annual custom of holding a baby beef auction following final showmanship activity has been abandoned.

A new home economic building will be built at the fair grounds, Association Secretary G. E. Codington said.

The films are scheduled to be shown on the ABC television network beginning late next month.

To Be Bride In Early Spring

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark Hoffman have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Elaine, to Eugene Warren Tedd, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Tedd. The wedding will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, March 3, at First Plymouth Congregational church.

Miss Hoffman is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is at present taking graduate work in the college of arts and sciences. A former student at Rutgers university, New Brunswick, N. J., Mr. Tedd is completing his studies at the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Phi Mu Alpha and Sinfonia.

For her wedding, the bride wore a period gown of white satin. The deep yoke of marquisette was framed by folds of lace-edged satin, and long sleeves completed the fitted bodice. The lace motif was repeated at the hem of the full, hooped skirt which tapered into a train, and was caught up at intervals to reveal a ruffled underskirt. A cap of lace and satin held new veil of imported illusion, and she carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies-of-the-valley.

Joseph Wagner served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Wesley R. Decker, brother of the bride, Daniel Wagner, brother of the bridegroom, Leo F. Osburn and John Curtis Guthrie.

Following a reception held in the parlors of the church Mr. Wagner and his bride left for a wedding trip to southern California, after which they will make their home at 3822 N. E. Mallore, Portland, Ore.

Scout Activities Shown Rotarians

The meaning of the Boy Scouts' motto, "Be Prepared," was told graphically to Rotary club members Tuesday noon at the Cornhusker hotel.

Ten Boy Scouts of Troop 43 under the direction of Ted Lloyd, Cornhusker Council assistant executive, demonstrated the following Scout activities:

Hike preparation—Morgan Bancroft, Unit Scout neckerchief—Lloyd Reid, Realistic First Aid (plastics and artificial blood-made realistic wounds—Geo. E. Egan.

Sterilization of bandages—Jack Rogers, Pressure Point in First Aid Treatment—Don Turner.

Box Safety—Jack Rogers.

Floyd Robbins is scoutmaster of Troop 43, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church.

MRS. EDSHEL COLLIER

Wedding Is Solemnized

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Gloria Yvonne Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Olson of Minneapolis, Minn., to Edsel Lloyd Collier of Richmond, Cal., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Collier of Shawnee, Okla., on Sunday, January 30.

Elder R. S. Joyce of the College View Seventh Day Adventist church read the lines of the service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dirksen in Lincoln. Later in the evening, a reception was held at the College View Lions club room.

The bride is a graduate of Union college, and Mr. Collier is completing his studies at Union college following three years service with the armed forces. The couple will reside at 4044 South Fifty-first street.

Sooners Trip Huskers

OKLAHOMA TAKES 47-45 BIG 7 WIN;
SECOND HALF COLD SPELL HURTS NU

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners are on top of the Big Seven conference Tuesday, vindicating their pre-season basketball tournament championship.

A last-half rally and a successful freeze gave the Sooners a 47-45 victory over Nebraska Monday night at Norman, Okla.

The loss was Nebraska's first in conference play, against five wins. Oklahoma has lost only to Kansas State, but has won six league games.

Oklahoma rallied from a 26-22 halftime deficit to stop the Huskers.

A couple of bounce passes from Paul Merchant, Oklahoma guard, to Captain Paul Courtney who converted both tied up the game at 43-all.

Wayne Glassgow followed Fred Wright of New Zealand for two of three falls in the semi-windup. Temple won the first in 13:58 with a reverse crab. Wright evened the score with a body slam in 15:13, but Temple won on a flying mare in 12:23.

Omaha's Framme McGill lost his first match at the Fairgrounds in the prelim. Gene Rardon whacked the former Holy Name high school athlete to the mat in 18:17.

Plainsmen Play Peru

NCC Leaders Invade Wesleyan Gym Tonight

NEBRASKA Wesleyan's lively Plainsmen will place their current six-game winning streak squarely on the block tonight when they play host to the top-ranking Peru Bobcats.

Coach Newt Kyle's Nebraska College conference leading crew clubbed the Methodists 50-37 in an earlier meeting.

However, improved scoring work by Cliff Squires and Del Miller, strong defensive play by Bob Ketterer and LeRoy Anderson, and the all around improvement of Gayle Voller, should make the Plainsmen tougher for the Tutors in this meeting.

NEW REGULAR. Voller, who rode the bench throughout most of the early campaign, has started in the Methodists' two most recent tests, and today carries the "most improved Plainsman" label. Against Midland and Doane last week, he collected 19 points and rebounded like a rock.

Anderson too hit his defensive peak last week. He held Midland's high scoring Rich Rankin to a single point, battoning the ball out of the Warrior forwards hands each time he tried a shot.

Coach Irv Peterson was able to rest his number one combination against both Midland and Doane. In the former game the varsity built up a 16-3 first quarter lead before the reserves took over. And against the Tigers, the reserves scored bucket for bucket with the losers after the varsity built up the margin.

LATER GAMES. Two additional tests face the Plainsmen who take on their most ambitious program of the season this week. Friday night the third place Methodist are host to fourth place Wayne and Saturday, Coach Peterson's crew travels to York.

Wayne nipped the Lincoln team at Wayne last month. The Plainsmen have one previous win over York.

Peru lost its first game in NCC play last week to Kearney, dropping a 75-70 marathon in two overtimes. Center Bob Ellers, former Panama high school ace, Guard Merle Bauer and Forward Omar Meeker have been the Bobcats' leaders this season.

Bauer and Forward Jack Hallstrom were all-conference choices last season.

Probable starters: Peru—Miller (6-1), Squires (6-1), Voller (6-1), Ketterer (6-1); Wesleyan—Johnson (6-2), Ellers (6-5), Bauer (6-2), Hallstrom (6-1), Powers (5-9).

North Atlantic Pact— Blanket Promise Opposed

Hickenlooper Says U. S. Should Fight Only If Aggression Unprovoked

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today the United States should be "morally committed" to act under the north Atlantic alliance only in cases of unprovoked aggression against a member.

Hickenlooper's observation came after Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) had made it plain the senate won't approve any treaty language which would morally commit this country to go to war.

The Connally-Vandenberg statement was made in response to questions yesterday by Sen. Donnell (R-Mo). It generally was regarded on capitol hill as involving a setback for the state department in its efforts to negotiate the proposed alliance with friendly European nations.

With Acheson Two Hours.

The two Senators went to the department for a conference with Secretary of State Acheson, lasting nearly two hours. Neither would comment afterwards.

Hickenlooper, a foreign relations committee member, told a reporter he agreed that this country ought not to make a blanket commitment to fight for it.

"We must reserve the right to decide for ourselves whether there has been actual, unprovoked aggression against a signatory country," he said.

"We don't want to enter any agreement in which a member nation can go out and provoke a war and expect us to fight for it. Want Congress To Decide.

But if we enter the agreement and there is an actual, unprovoked aggression against one of our friends, then I think we will have the moral obligation to take action," he said.

There was evidence that Connally and Vandenberg had something of the same sort in mind. They told their colleagues they wanted to make a special effort not to reserve to Congress its final decision on whether this country should go to war.

Vandenberg said there should be no automatic commitment for war, he added.

Connally-Vandenberg statements were looked upon as something of a restraining hand on any promise the state department might make to France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg and other nations which might enter the agreement.

Earthquake Recorded At Wesleyan U.

A "rather violent" earthquake was recorded on the Nebraska Wesleyan university seismograph at 12:17 p. m. Monday. Sharp vibrations lasted about 20 minutes.

Dr. John C. Jensen, physics department head, said the shock was an estimated 800 to 1,000 miles away from Lincoln. There was no way to determine in what direction.

The Associated Press reported a "fairly strong" shock was recorded yesterday at the Spring Hill college seismograph at Mobile, Ala. Louis L. Eisele said the tremor started at 12:15 p. m. and lasted more than an hour. He said it appeared to be located about 1,400 to 1,420 miles from Mobile.

A New York dispatch said a series of earth shocks varying from sharp to slight was recorded on the Fordham university seismograph. The two sharp shocks were recorded at 12:14 and 12:23 p. m. Monday and placed about 2,540 miles distant in an undetermined direction.

Veterans' Pension Is Approved

After 6 Committeemen Walk Out Of Hot Session

(From Press Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—The house veterans committee today approved a bill providing pensions for veterans of both world wars.

The action came after a stormy committee session in which six democrats walked out in protest against a ruling by Chairman Rankin (D-Miss.).

The bill would give $90-a-month pensions to all veterans of world wars I and II at the age of 65.

The six democrats accused Rankin of employing "dictatorial" tactics at the committee session.

Rep Patten (D-Ariz.) asserted that he walked out because Rankin called for passage of the bill after a discussion of only seven minutes.

"Dictatorship" Charge.

The story of the squabbling came out after the closed-door meeting broke up. The fight later spread to the house floor where claims of "dictatorship" were raised against Chairman Rankin (D-Miss.).

Other committee members told reporters after the meeting they did not see the final draft of the measure until today's meeting.

One member, who asked that his name not be said, Rankin was defeated on one issue by a vote of 14 to 5.

Problems Of Prejudice Discussed

At Church Women's Council Meeting

Problems of racial prejudice and race relations were discussed by speakers at the meeting of the Lincoln Council of Church Women Tuesday at Elm Park church.

Guest speaker Leo Bohanon, executive secretary of the Omaha Urban League, spoke on "Racial Prejudice, America's Problem."

He outlined four responsibilities in social relations:

1. Christian responsibility.

2. Responsibility to our own citizens.

3. Economic responsibility.

4. International responsibility.

Bohanon found that progress had been made during recent years with more attention to race relations in publications, on the radio, and by increased number of committees dealing with the subject.

Joining in a panel discussion on "Practical Suggestions for Combating Discrimination," were Mr. Bohanon, Miss Camilla Palmer, Rev. Phillip Schug and Rabbi Jerome Kestenbaum. A movie, "Brotherhood of Man," was shown during the luncheon in the church parlors.

Mrs. Arthur Dunning read the devotions. Mrs. Ned Darlington and Mrs. Dunning were co-chairmen of the race relations committee in charge of the program.

Lorenz Sunyok Dies; Former City Employee

Lorenz Sunyok, 79, 242 South Eighteenth street, a Lincoln resident for about 30 years, died at his home Tuesday morning.

Born March 7, 1869, in Goltz, Austria-Hungary, Mr. Sunyok came to the United States at the age of 18 and began farming near Crete. After moving to Lincoln, he was employed by the city until he became ill in 1944.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Cassie Weilage Sunyok; two daughters, Frances Taylor, Lincoln, and Mrs. Clara Farmer, Tacoma, Wash.; one brother, Martin, in Iowa, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, 2 p. m. at Umbersergs. Dr. Roy A. Trowbridge officiating. Mrs. Daniel Rohrbaugh will furnish music and burial will be in Wyuka.

3 Children Bills Killed

Three children's law bills were killed by the judiciary committee of the unicameral Monday, in order to avoid putting patches upon patches upon the present laws.

Chairman John McKnight of Auburn said the action was taken because a complete revision and codification in the state's children's laws is being conducted under the legislative council.

The measures killed would have given juvenile case jurisdiction to county courts in all counties except Lancaster and Douglas (LB 188); extended the age of a "dependent child" from 16 to 18 (LB 191), and provided that paternity of an illegitimate child could be established by an acknowledgement in writing (LB 189).

One Bill Approved.

Approved was LB 190, which prohibits the adoption or giving of a child under 16 (instead of two as the law now stands) without the approval of the court.

The committee struck out of this bill a phrase which have given "public or private welfare agencies" the right to approve such an adoption on equal footing with a court.

Sen. William Metzger of Cedar Creek, introduced, told the committee the bill was aimed at protecting not only the child itself, but also the foster parents and the child's parents or unwed mother.

The committee heard three bills, LB 150, 206 and 229, all dealing with the same section of the statutes on county judges' fees.

LB 206 was killed, while LB 150 and 229 were laid over for consolidation and amendment by the committee.

Rites Held Tuesday For W. C. Huestis

Funeral services for William C. Huestis, 62, 4911 Leighton street, insurance agent who died at Sioux Falls, S. D., Friday, were held Tuesday, 2 p. m. at the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Rev. L. Lloyd Rising officiated and burial was held in Lincoln Memorial Park.

Surviving Mr. Huestis are his wife, Anna; one son, Harold; one daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Brantner, Balboa, Panama Canal Zone; one brother, Jess, Washington, D. C., and one grandchild.

Mr. Huestis was a charter member of the Shrine at Sioux Falls.

5th Army To Work In Four N.E. Counties

Harry H. Bowers, 68, 2103 North Cotner boulevard, a Lincoln resident for about 30 years, died at a local hospital early Tuesday morning.

Born at Chandlerville, Ill., Mr. Bowers came to Kenesaw, Neb., at the age of six months with his father. He had been employed by the Lincoln board of education.

Mr. Bowers was an elder of the Bethany Christian church, a past master of Bethany Lodge No. 397, A. F. & A. M., and past patron of Columbia chapter, No. 275, O. E. S.

He was married to Bessie Mecham in 1903 and she died in 1918. In 1922, he married Edith Stewart who survives.

Surviving besides his wife are two sons, Lyle A., Mesa, Ariz., and Wallace B., Bismarck, N. D.; one brother, O. M. Bowers, Kearney, Neb.; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Meanwhile, the state's disaster area where digging out operations are in their second month has been whittled down to 25 counties from a high of 52.

C. W. Anderson, federal works administration official who is coordinator of operation snowbound of the Fifth army reported that by midnight tonight, the army was still a need to open roads to livestock in those counties.

The work is beyond the capacity of these facilities," the governor reported although he added that there was no human suffering in that area. He pointed out that there was still a need to open roads to livestock in those counties.

Chapter 1
St. Augustine was sleepy, with an air of moldering decay—as there was about all things pertaining to the Spanish empire in these days. Rivers reflected, black eyes questing the moon-hung night suspiciously.

A stone's throw away was the sea, the breaking waves a soft murmur against the bank. A lank hand sniffed at garbage, and Rivers, conscious of his own tightened belt, viewed it speculatively. A wine shop was flanked by a clatter of sagging buildings. Moss draped trees overhung the street, shutting out the moon. At the corner arose the ghostly outlines of a stately house such as might have graced Seville itself.

A quarter-mile off shore, riding at anchor, was a ship. Another lay farther out, a ghostly shadow on the water. Spanish, and probably, judging by the lax habits of most crews, nearly deserted at this hour. It would be an easy swim, out to either. As to the chances, once he had reached a ship—

Rivers glanced at himself, mouth twisting with wry humor. These clothes which he wore were Spanish. He'd taken care of that in making an exchange, three nights before. Though beggars might not always be choosers, he had picked with an eye to quality, such garments as a gentleman might wear.

The shoe buckles were silver, the sword of finest steel. His beard, thanks to a discreetly borrowed razor, had been clean-scraped no longer ago than early evening, and the long lean chin and slightly blushing jaws showed under the night black hair. A swim would leave him scarcely so presentable. Still—

Sudden clamor broke on the night, as ill-sounding in Spanish as in French or English. The thud of running feet, the terrified scream of a woman. Turning, Rivers saw her fleeing, two men at her heels, one snatching at her long cloak.

The garment came loose in his hands. She was no native girl, but, judging by the fair beauty of her face, she might have been a lady of old Spain itself. The other man lunged, and then she was struggling desperately but helplessly in his grasp.

Rivers hesitated. This woman, he guessed, was Spanish—and he hated all things Spanish. On the other hand, she was a woman, beautiful, and in distress. His hesitation was only a heart-beat.

Apparently they were less drunk than he had supposed. At his approach they swing about, releasing the woman. To his surprise, for they appeared to be sailors, both whipped out swords, and, seeing him alone, came at him to fight!

score, coming from both directions at once.

The cause of it, sensibly enough, had vanished. Rivers saw that, and then they were upon him, and this time there was work for the blade, flashing like a live thing, with other swords beating at it while they sought to overwhelm him by sheer force of numbers.

But the press hindered them, and he had blooded his blade three times. Still, the odds were overwhelming. His one chance was to reach the water.

The steel tangled with another blade, snapped off short in his hand. Before they could pin him down he snatched his own sword, then stepped back—and down to the softly lapping water.

It closed over him, noxious with water-front refuse, but there was no respite. Others were plunging in after him. Rivers came up and thrust, his blade reddening, the water about the other man turning dark. But they had him surrounded, a giant of a man was raising a blade high in air.

This, Rivers thought, is time to begin to fight!
